- (3) The state board of education may not require the acquisition of the certificate of academic achievement or the certificate of completion for students in home-based instruction under chapter 28A.200 RCW, for students enrolled in private schools under chapter 28A.195 RCW, or for students eligible and satisfying the provisions of RCW 28A.155.045.
- (4) Subject to the conditions in this section, a certificate of academic achievement shall be obtained by most students at about the age of sixteen, and is evidence that the students have successfully met the state standard in the content areas included in the certificate. ((With the exception of students satisfying the provisions of RCW 28A.155.045, acquisition of the certificate is required for graduation from a public high school but is not the only requirement for graduation.
- $\frac{(3)}{(5)(a)}$ Beginning with the graduating class of 2008, ((with the exception of students satisfying the provisions of RCW 28A.155.045,)) a student who meets the state standards on the reading, writing, and mathematics content areas of the high school Washington assessment of student learning shall earn a certificate of academic achievement.

The courses shall be intended to increase the student's proficiency toward meeting or exceeding the state standards in that content area. Specific consideration shall be given to whether career and technical education courses, online courses, or courses at skill centers could be used to meet the coursework requirements. The student learning plan shall also establish a minimum grade point average that the student must receive in the course in order for the course to count toward the certificate of completion.

(b) The student must retake the assessment in the content area or areas at least annually until the student meets the state standard or the student graduates from high school. The student may retake the assessment in the content area up to four times at no cost to the student. If the student successfully meets the state standards on a retake of the assessment then the student shall earn a certificate of academic achievement. Once objective alternative assessments are authorized pursuant to subsection (10) of this section, a student may use the objective alternative assessments to demonstrate that the student successfully meets the state standards for that content area if the student has ((retaken)) taken the Washington assessment of student learning at least once. If the student successfully meets the state standards on the objective alternative assessments then the student shall earn a certificate of academic achievement.

((4) Beginning with the graduating class of 2010, a student must meet the state standards in science in addition to the other content areas required under subsection (3) of this section on the Washington assessment of student learning or the objective alternative assessments in order to earn a certificate of academic achievement.

Participating institutions of higher education, in consultation with school districts, may establish admission standards for these students. If the institution of higher education accepts a secondary school pupil for enrollment under this section, the institution of higher education shall send written notice to the pupil and the pupil's school district within ten days of acceptance. The notice shall indicate the course and hours of enrollment for that pupil.
- (2) The pupil's school district shall transmit to the institution of higher education an amount per each full-time

1 equivalent college student at statewide uniform rates for 2 vocational and nonvocational students. Renumber the remaining section consecutively and correct internal references accordingly.

EFFECT: Beginning with the class of 2008, students who meet all state and local graduation requirements except meeting the state standard on the WASL can graduate by earning a Certificate of Completion. Students who pass all required content areas on the WASL continue to earn a Certificate of Academic Achievement, and special education students continue to earn the Certificate of Individual Achievement. Learning Plans must specify the courses and competencies students must complete to receive a Certificate of Completion, as well as the minimum GPA received for those courses. Various sections of law are amended to reference the new Certificate.

Provisions changing the dates by which students must pass the math and science WASL in order to graduate are removed.
